

KENDALL NATIONAL VIOLIN COMPETITION

Live Music returns to Kendall

On the long weekend in early October (October 3-5) the Kendall National Violin Competition returns to the Kendall School of Arts with a String Academy for community musicians and young emerging artist recitals.

The weekend features events that will respect physical distancing regulations and reduced seating capacity. The program includes four 50-minute recitals by Young Artists, a recital by Artistic Director Goetz Richter (violin) and Jeanell Carrigan (piano) and two community workshops for string players from the Mid-North Coast.

The academy is made possible with the support from the Kendall Community OpShop.

All proceeds from the weekend will benefit the Kendall National Violin Competition which will return to Kendall in March 2021
